

The aim of the project is to improve the well-being and inclusion of young people from 7 to 26 all around Estonia by creating special means and measures for 86 youth centres. Since now we have 83401 youth participation.

The project is almost finished. 86 youth centres youth workers had possibilities to choose one evidence based methods and take part training courses in August and September (94 participants all over Estonia). All areas started already to use those methods and 28,3 % has finished and there has been 18970 participation. A great emphasis has been put also on the local activities which aim is to develop youth social skills, such as recreational activities and camps. 81 youth centres provide new hobby groups in different topics. There are 38820 participation till now. Results are good, 3089 new youngsters are now in youth work. 70 new experts are involved with those groups. We have organized 9 camps between 24 areas from beginning, 196 unique youngsters participated. Local areas also prepare local network systems that helps them to find the best solutions for the youth that have problems at home, at school or with their behavior. All centres have organized meetings with local experts that work with youngsters. There were (from September to December) 245 new meetings to solve 490 youth problems and find a good solution. All youth centres has done common activities with school (79 new events) and involved 294 new teachers, 627 parents and 4482 youngsters. In order to find and involve the target group trough mobile youth work facilities, such as outreach programmes, online youth work and community-based work, we had training courses in May and June for 70 participants. 43 youth centres provide mobile youth work from summer 2014. There has been done since now 9509 contacts with youth.